AAHOA Statement on NLRB Reversal of Joint Employer Standard

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 28 — AAHOA president and CEO Chip Rogers released the following statement in response to the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) decision to revert to the Browning-Ferris joint employer standard:

“The NLRB’s decision to revert to the unclear Browning-Ferris joint employer standard represents an appalling return to the uncertainty that stagnated job growth in franchised hotels and is yet another reminder of the job-killing effect of arbitrary regulatory overreach by unelected bureaucrats. AAHOA calls on the Senate to take up H.R. 3441, the Save Local Business Act, that will cement the historical definition of direct and indirect control into statute and return certainty and stability to the franchise industry.”
