AAHOA Hires Robert Stuckey as VP of Business Development

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 1 – AAHOA, the nation’s largest hotel owners association, is pleased to welcome Robert Stuckey as its new Vice President of Business Development. Stuckey will lead the department and join AAHOA’s executive leadership team.

“We are excited to welcome Robert to AAHOA. He brings substantial experience to his position and a sound strategic vision for the association’s important business development work. He has an exceptional understanding of our members and the hospitality industry, and I look forward to working with Robert in this new role,” said AAHOA President & CEO Cecil P. Staton.

Stuckey joins AAHOA from Davidson Hotels where he served as Director, Transitions and Brand Compliance. Previously he worked for ShawContract and IHG. Stuckey brings his unique perspective of hotel operations, brand leadership, and vendor relations to AAHOA. He is familiar with the association having worked with AAHOA Members in his previous positions, guided ShawContract's Industry Partnership with AAHOA, and frequently attended AAHOA’s Conventions & Trade Shows.

“I could not be more excited about joining AAHOA at this incredibly important time in our industry's history,” said Stuckey. “AAHOA, its Members, and Industry Partners have always been an important part of my hospitality career including working and consulting directly with members. Feedback, partnership, growth, and innovation will be my mantra as we look to grow our value and connection with AAHOA Members and Industry Partners, carrying out AAHOA's 2021-2023 Strategic Plan, and continuing down the road to recovery for the entire AAHOA community.”
